SEEK SOLUTION OF MURDER OF MOORHEAD MAN

Michael Hansmann Is Fatally Wounded in His Own Front Yard

RETURNING FROM LODGE

Prowler or Petty Thief Is Believed Responsible For Act

Moorhead, Minn., Sept. 20.—A prowler or petty thief as yet unknown, surprised while peering into the Michael Hansmann home of Moorhead, mortally wounded Michael Hansmann shortly before midnight last night, according to the theory advanced by Sheriff Peter Malvey this morning after a check of available clues this morning.

Hansmann died in a hospital at 1 a. m. today from a gunshot in his abdomen. Although he described the shooting in a dying statement it throws little light on the shooting, Sheriff Malvey said. The time of the shooting was set between 11:20 and 11:25 p. m. by neighbors who heard the shots and Hansmann's groans. Neighbors report that after the sound of the shot and groans they saw a person carrying a lighted flashlight run south from the Hansmann home and continue south through the block across the street. Hansmann was shot while on the front step or in the front yard of his home as he was returning from a meeting of the Moorhead lodge of Modern Woodmen. Members of his family, hearing the shot, ran to the door and met him as he staggered into the house. He was taken to a local hospital where a large hole was found torn in his abdomen by birdshot. The intestines were torn in shreds in places, according to physicians.

Hansmann was shot before he saw his assailant and the shooting occurred without the exchange of a word, he said at the hospital. He could give no description of the murderer. Hansmann was 65 years old. He ran a dairy and was a former section worker for the Northern Pacific and was a member of the Moorhead police a number of years ago. Sheriff Malvey and members of the family say they know of no one who would have a grudge against him.

HER DISPLAY OF GEMS WON NOTICE FROM ALL—INCLUDING N. Y. BANDITS

MILLE EDITH BOHE

By NEA Service
New York, Sept. 20.—Broadway demands glitter.

Show and display are the twins of the avenue. Edith Weeks, who came from Detroit, worked in a garment factory, and graduated into Mlle. Edith Bohe, gown purveyor to the theatrically select, learned this and built her business.

So, in tracing down the $50,000 robbery of Mlle. Bohe, there came to light new chapters in what it takes to be courtier to the easy spenders of the theater, films and cabarets.

As a matter of cold business Edith Bohe had constantly to outdazzle the dazblers. Theatrical and movie celebrities were her customers. She had to wear such gems as would bring gasps wherever she appeared. It was good advertising. Her own gowns had to be the last word. They had to be talked about. And she had to entertain. Thus her gown establishment in a fashionable neighborhood was fitted both for business and recreation. A bar was set up in its entirety, from mirrors to brass rails.

Here would gather the great names of the show and film world for parties that were talked about from box office to stage door. Her display room could be turned into a dance floor; the upper floors were equipped with costly Louis XV furniture. She had some 300 rare clocks, valued up to $5,000 each.

And this was fine for business. The place became sought. Its reputation traveled to Europe and men of the world came there. A few nights before the robbery there had been a party of 90 and Edith had been presented with a diamond bracelet containing 432 diamonds and a $4,000 Ermine coat. She would appear in the cafes and theaters bedecked with gems. The public display of gems and costly gowns brought her attention of those daring crooks who prey upon Broadway's petted favorites.

The glitter that won her Broadway fame also attracted the men who robbed her.

WHOLE CHARGE OF SHOTGUN ENTERS FOOT

Jamestown, N. D., Sept. 20.—The whole charge of a 12 gauge shotgun, and all, passed completely through the foot of Wesley Ackerman last night when he accidentally discharged the gun as he sought shelter while chicken hunting in a barn near Jamestown. It is expected that he may have to have two toes amputated, but the wound is a clean hole at the base of the toes. He is in the hospital.

LEOPOLD, LOEB WOULD TEACH

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, serving life sentences in the state penitentiary at Joliet, for kidnapping and slaying young Robert Frank, have applied for positions as instructors in the prison night school, it became known here today. Unless they commit some infringement of prison regulations, penitentiary officials indicated they might get the jobs which would add three hours to their working day.

They would continue to do manual labor from 7 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. prison officials said, and would teach in the prison school from 6 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Visitors to the English Parliament average 5000 on ordinary days and more than 20,000 every Saturday.

BANK ROBBED WHILE DEPUTY IS STANDING READY TO 'SHOOT IT OUT'

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 20.—While Deputy Sheriff Julius Schoenbein of St. Louis county, armed with several revolvers and determined to "shoot it out", stood in front of the Western Trust Company on the western outskirts of this city yesterday, five masked bandits were inside looting the vaults and cash drawers and obtaining about $50,000. The deputy had been "tipped off" that the hold-up was to be staged, he said, and arrived in front of the bank just a short time after the bandits had entered. They escaped by a rear door. Another deputy sheriff, who was on his way to the bank following report of the robbery at the sheriff's office, was crowded off the road by the automobiles believed to be the highway-men's car escaping.

MAJOR ATTACK ON LIVESTOCK INCREASE

Wounded Chekiangs Describe Efforts for Defense of Shanghai as Big One

Shanghai, 10 p. m. Sept. 20. (By the A. P.)—In an engagement which started at daybreak, reinforced Chekiang troops on the front between the Shanghai-Nanking railway line at Kiting, pushed the invading Kiangsu forces back, strengthened their lines and regained possession of Hwangtu, 15 miles west of here.

Wounded Chekiang soldiers arriving here this morning said the fighting was described as a major attack by the Shanghai defenders. Two airplanes from Chekiang headquarters at Lungwha were sighted over Shanghai this morning, proceeding toward the front.

Fifteen hundred Chekiang troops to reinforce the lines west of here arrived in Shanghai at daybreak from Kashing, 72 miles south of here. Kashing is in the general area affected yesterday by a reported revolt in the Chekiang troops.

Observers said this morning that the heaviest shipment of arms sent to the eastern front near the city in a single day was moved from Shanghai this morning. The arsenal here is working day and night refilling empty shells.

At the Lungwha headquarters, announcement was that the Kiangsu attack yesterday was aimed at breaking communication to Liuhu. The Chekiang counter attack at daybreak today, the announcement said, resulted in the recovery of all ground lost yesterday and the capture of many Kiangsu prisoners.

Peking, China, Sept. 20. (By the A. P.) Official telegrams received here tonight from Quinlan, field headquarters of the Kiangsu army seeking to capture Shanghai, declared that Chekiang regimental commanders with their men were surrendering to the attacking forces. An unofficial report said that the government had received a request from the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce that the attack on Shanghai be stopped because of the flight from its province capital, Hangchow, of Lu-Wung, being Tutchang of Chekiang. He is said to be in Shanghai at present.

From Cheoyang, near the Chihli-Manchurian border, where Chihli soldiers are on the defensive against Chang Tso-lin invading Manchuria, had come an official dispatch that one of Chang's airplanes had been shot down by the airplanes and the machine's two pilots sent to the hospital.

SHEEP, COWS TO BE PLACED ON COUNTY FARMS

Agricultural Credit Corporation Plans For Placing of Large Amount

LIVESTOCK INCREASE

This Year's Crops To Promote Diversified Farming in This Section

One thousand sheep and several cars of Holstein cattle probably will be put on farms in Burleigh county by the Agricultural Credit Corporation this fall, as a part of the program of assisting farmers in their desire for a more complete diversification. Paul Wagner, district representative of the Agricultural Credit Corporation, formed with headquarters in Minneapolis to aid in building up the Northwest, is now in the field in the interest of this program.

At least 1,500 sheep will be brought in from Montana and placed on Burleigh county farms by this corporation, according to information to P. C. Remington, one of the state advisors of the corporation. They will be put on farms in comparatively small bunches, probably 50 to 100. Several carloads of Holstein cows also are to be placed on the farms. The Agricultural Credit Corporation purchases the livestock for farmers and accepts security in return, making the loan payable at a convenient time.

Mr. Wagner, who is with the extension department of the Agricultural College but is looking after the district work of the credit corporation, received word today that applications for sheep, which were to close today, may be made to him until September 27. The distribution of dairy cows will continue all fall.

This program has been carried on in various parts of the state by the corporation. Indicative of the trend toward livestock in the county, in spite of this year's grain yields, is the unloading of six carloads, or about 1,200 sheep on the Wilton-Pingree line at Regan and Tuttle, by P. C. Remington. The sheep came from the Killdeer mountains and are being put out to his own tenants, Mr. Remington said. They are distributed in bunches of 50 to 250. Sheep put out on this same territory last fall under the same plan paid for themselves in a year, he said.

Other reports indicated that there will be much livestock purchasing in the county this fall, numerous farmers seeking more milk cows, sheep and hogs, are expected by those familiar with the trend of things.

MINOT LAWYERS MEET ROYALTY

Minot, N. D., Sept. 20.—L. J. Polak and John H. Lewis, well known local attorneys now touring Europe have written friends here telling what it is like to be entertained by English royalty. A letter says:

"We were given a splendid reception by all the great lawyers and judges in England in Westminster hall. The lord mayor of London gave a dinner that later was a real revelation. Lady Astor gave a garden party. Other lords and ladies gave receptions and parties that were grand and these were climaxed by a reception given by the king and queen and their family in Buckingham palace. It was a gorgeous affair with all the pomp we dream of and read about. I saw no sign of snobbery at any time. It was just one grand party, with two bands going and all the pomp and glitter of the guards."

BEET HARVEST BEGUN IN GRAND FORKS AREA

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 20.—Harvesting of sugar beets grown for the Minnesota Sugar company in the Grand Forks area began today.

A meeting of Bismarck taxpayers interested in the suit instituted in their behalf by Marcus Edberg yesterday to recover $7,250 alleged to have been paid T. R. Atkinson, city engineer illegally, was held Saturday afternoon in the law offices of Crum & Crum.

Mr. Edberg requested the Tribune to publish the fact that he was acting in behalf of a large number of taxpayers similarly situated as he is and that they are back of him in this case.

It is also pointed out by Bismarck taxpayers that Mr. Edberg, by signing the complaint has enabled this case to be determined on its merits and whether the case is won or lost, it will determine to what limit city commissioners can go in payment of fees for engineering work beyond a formal contract or other agreement. ## PHOTOGRAPHS FOUND IN HOME HELD IMPORTANT LINK IN MURDER CASE

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 20. (By the A. P.)—Important additional information has come to light within the last few hours in the case of the Lawrence Hight, Illinois clerkman, in jail here charged with poisoning his wife, States Attorney Thompson announced today.

"We have the evidence now to go to trial on a murder charge," Thompson said. "I do not care at this time to disclose the nature of the new evidence but at the proper time we will be able to show that the minister was in the market for poison on a rather extensive scale this summer."

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 20. (By the A. P.) Photographs found in the home of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, held in jail here while authorities are investigating the death of his wife, Anna, and Wilfred Sweetin, who died under circumstances said to be similar, today were considered an important part of the evidence collected in the case.

The two photographs of the Rev. Hight and Mrs. Sweetin, posted on a sheet of paper, Sheriff Holcomb said last night, were found in the clerkman's home at Ina, 12 miles south of here, while he and other officers were searching for further evidence to show positively that the death of Mrs. Hight was caused by poison. A chemist who analyzed the contents of Mrs. Hight's stomach reported finding enough poison that would have caused the death of the woman.

Other organs of the woman are to be examined, the body having been taken from the grave at Metropolis, Ill., where she was buried last Sunday. Authorities were awaiting a report from a Chicago chemist instructed to examine the viscera of Sweetin, whose body also was disinterred.

TRIPLETS ARE NAMED AFTER 3 CANDIDATES

Chicago, Sept. 19. (By the A. P.)—One of the triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee of Aurora, Illinois, near here, may bear the name of the next president.

They have telegraphed President Coolidge, John W. Davis and Senator LaFollette, "we have named one of our triplets for you. One is certain to have the name of the next President."

"But you can't be certain of that," the answer was wired in behalf of Senator LaFollette by his son, Robert Jr. "The election may be thrown into Congress and a nominee named after a deadlock in the House."

He suggested "that no matter what is done with the Coolidge and Davis boys the LaFollette youngster should be kept and raised."

Announced That Action Is Taken "With a View of Adjustment of the Budget"

Washington, Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Secretary Wilbur, whose western speaking tour was cut short when he was asked to return to Washington by President Coolidge and at the termination of his interview with the President announced that a special board would be appointed to investigate the relative importance of air, submarine and surface craft in the navy.

Appointment of the board was suggested by the President, Mr. Wilbur said, adding that the chief executive indicated he desired the matter to be taken up at once "with a view to adjustment of the budget" in accordance with whatever conclusion is reached by the board.

Secretary Wilbur declared emphatically that the speeches he made on his tour were not brought up at the White House conference. Only the technical details of the budget in relation to a balanced navy was considered, he said.

Referring particularly to an address made in Seattle Secretary Wilbur said he had been quoted incorrectly with reference to American Japanese relations. He asserted the speech was "emphatically conciliatory."

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 20.—University students are coming back hunting for jobs in greater numbers than in former years, according to Earl Harris, of the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau at the state university, who has received application from over 100 men who intend to register at the university this year and want remunerative work to pay their expenses. Thirteen of the 100 applicants had been placed in positions, yesterday, and the "Y" workers are scouring the city in the search for openings.

SHEEP, COWS TO BE PLACED ON COUNTY FARMS

THIS YEAR'S CROPS TO PROMOTE DIVERSIFIED FARMING IN THIS SECTION

One thousand sheep and several cars of Holstein cattle probably will be put on farms in Burleigh county by the Agricultural Credit Corporation this fall, as a part of the program of assisting farmers in their desire for a more complete diversification. Paul Wagner, district representative of the Agricultural Credit Corporation, formed with headquarters in Minneapolis to aid in building up the Northwest, is now in the field in the interest of this program.

At least 1,500 sheep will be brought in from Montana and placed on Burleigh county farms by this corporation, according to information to P. C. Remington, one of the state advisors of the corporation. They will be put on farms in comparatively small bunches, probably 50 to 100. Several carloads of Holstein cows also are to be placed on the farms. The Agricultural Credit Corporation purchases the livestock for farmers and accepts security in return, making the loan payable at a convenient time.

Mr. Wagner, who is with the extension department of the Agricultural College but is looking after the district work of the credit corporation, received word today that applications for sheep, which were to close today, may be made to him up until September 27. The distribution of dairy cows will continue all fall.

This program has been carried on in various parts of the state by the corporation. Indicative of the trend toward livestock in the county, in spite of this year's grain yields, is the fact that the county has about 1,200 sheep on the Wilton-Pingree line at Regan and Tuttle, by P. C. Remington. The sheep came from the Killdeer mountains and are being put out to its own tenants, Mr. Remington said. They are distributed in bunches of 50 to 250. Sheep put out on this same territory last fall under the same plan paid for themselves in a year, he said.

Other reports indicated that there will be much livestock purchasing in the county this fall, numerous farmers seeking more milk cows, sheep and hogs. A marked increase in hog raising is expected by those familiar with the trend of things.

PHOTOGRAPHS FOUND IN HOME HELD IMPORTANT LINK IN MURDER CASE

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 20. (By the A. P.)—Important additional information has come to light within the last few hours in the case of the Lawrence Hight, Illinois clergyman, in jail here charged with poisoning his wife, States Attorney Thompson announced today.

"We have the evidence now to go to trial on a murder charge," Thompson said. "I do not care at this time to disclose the nature of the new evidence but at the proper time we will be able to show that the minister was in the market for poison on a rather extensive scale this summer."

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Photographs found in the home of Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, held in jail here while authorities are investigating the death of his wife, Anna, and Wilfred Sweetin, who died under circumstances said to be similar, today were considered an important part of the evidence collected in the case.

The two photographs of the Rev. Hight and Mrs. Sweetin, pasted on a sheet of paper, Sheriff Holcomb said last night, were found in the clergyman's home at Ina, 12 miles south of here, while he and other officers were searching for further evidence to show positively that the death of Mrs. Hight was caused by poison. A chemist who analyzed the contents of Mrs. Hight's stomach reported finding enough poison that would have caused the death of the woman.

Other organs of the woman are to be examined, the body having been taken from the grave at Metropolis, Ill., where she was buried last Sunday. Authorities were awaiting a report from a Chicago chemist instructed to examine the viscera of Sweetin, whose body also was disinterred.

They have telegraphed President Coolidge, John W. Davis and Senator LaFollette, "we have named one of our triplets for you. One is certain to have the name of the next President."

"But you can't be certain of that," the answer was wired in behalf of Senator LaFollette by his son, Robert Jr. "The election may be thrown into Congress and a nominee named after a deadlock in the House." He suggested "that no matter what is done with the Coolidge and Davis boys the LaFollette youngsters should be kept and raised."

The rainfall report follows: America .10 of an inch; Bismarck .01; Bottineau .32; Devils Lake, 1.56; Dickinson .49; Dunn Center .30; Ellendale .25; Grand Forks 1.04; Jamestown .70; Langdon 2.25; Larimore 2.00; Lisbon .34; Minot .25; Pembina .42; Williston, none; Moorhead, Minnesota, .02.

The lowest temperature last night was reported from Jamestown, it being 40 above there. Bottineau and Dunn Center reported 42 above.

Frost is probable tonight, if the skies clear, however, the weather bureau warned.

TAXPAYERS OF CITY BACK MARCUS EDBERG IN SUIT TO RECOVER ATKINSON FEE

A meeting of Bismarck taxpayers interested in the suit instituted in their behalf by Marcus Edberg yesterday to recover $7,950 alleged to have been paid T. R. Atkinson, city engineer illegally, was held Saturday afternoon in the law offices of Crum & Crum.

Mr. Edberg requested the Tribune to publish the fact that he was acting in behalf of a large number of taxpayers similarly situated as he is and that they are back of him in this case.

It is also pointed out by Bismarck taxpayers that Mr. Edberg, by signing the complaint has enabled this case to be determined on its merits and whether the case is won or lost, it will determine to what limit city commissioners can go in payment of fees for engineering work beyond a formal contract or other agreement. President Directs Secretary To Investigate Importance, Air, Submarines

FOR THE BUDGET

Announced That Action Is Taken "With a View of Adjustment of the Budget"

Washington, Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Secretary Wilbur, whose western speaking tour was cut short when he was asked to return to Washington by President Coolidge and at the termination of his interview with the President announced that a special board would be appointed to investigate the relative importance of air, submarine and surface craft in the navy.

Appointment of the board was suggested by the President. Mr. Wilbur said, adding that the chief executive indicated he desired the matter to be taken up at once "with a view to adjustment of the budget" in accordance with whatever conclusion is reached by the board.

Secretary Wilbur declared emphatically that the speeches he made on his tour were not brought up at the White House conference. Only the technical details of the budget in relation to a balanced navy was considered, he said.

Referring particularly to an address made in Seattle Secretary Wilbur said he had been quoted incorrectly with reference to American Japanese relations. He asserted the speech was "emphatically conciliatory."

SITUATION ON G.O.P. ELECTORS IS UNCHANGED

Men Favorable to LaFollette Still Are in the Coolidge Column

CONFERENCE IS HELD

Roy Frazier, chairman of the Republican state committee as controlled by the Nonpartisan League, to whom Coolidge forces have been looking for the withdrawal of presidential electors now occupying the Coolidge column but who are favorable to LaFollette, early this afternoon was awaiting a conference with F. A. Vogel of Coleharbor, LaFollette campaign manager, before taking any action leading to clearing up the situation. He said Mr. Vogel was expected during the afternoon.

A conference which continued until after closing hours at the state capitol yesterday failed to settle the electoral candidate question.

After the conference broke up, there was indication that the situation might be settled soon. Effort was made to reach Mr. Vogel, the LaFollette campaign manager, on the telephone for his opinion on the situation but he could not be reached at the time.

The conference took up the proposed form of the ballot as it will be prepared by the Secretary of State's office and included Secretary of State Thomas Hall, Roy Frazier, chairman of the Republican state committee as controlled by Nonpartisans; Jud LaMoore of Pembina, representing Harrison Garnett, Republican national committeeman, and E. T. Burke of Bismarck. Frazier declared he was pleased with the proposed form of the ballot but wanted Vogel's assent before proceeding with the filing of the resignations of the four LaFollette electors, which he said that he had in his pocket.

The form of ballot was explained by the Secretary of State after the conference provides for a Republican column, a Democratic column, a Nonpartisan League party column, and separate columns for each set of presidential electors. Thus the Workers Party, which has filed presidential electoral candidates, would have a separate column headed "Workers Party" with the names of the five electoral candidates bracketed under the name of the presidential candidate opposite. The LaFollette column would contain his name at the head and permit bracketing of electoral candidates, Secretary of State Hall said.

He also declared that all candidates who desired to file in the LaFollette column, including Nps, could do so by having their names filed on the same certificate as that used for the LaFollette electoral candidates.

WOMAN SLAIN BY EX-CONVICT SHE HAD AIDED

Chicago Woman Struck With Hammer, Then Shot, $20,000 Jewels Missing

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 20.—Mrs. C. R. Huna, 60, said to be the wife of a Chicago firm of ink manufacturers, was found slain on the threshold of her bungalow court apartment here last night, her skull smashed by hammer blows and a bullet wound in her heart.

According to the police, her assailant was Conners, 45, a former convict whom she had befriended when he was serving a prison sentence in Illinois for robbery, whose release she had helped to obtain and whose efforts to start life anew she had aided with gifts of clothes and money.

Mrs. Huna's eight-year-old adopted daughter, Virginia, told investigators that Conners had called at the apartment last night, had been cordially received and invited to remain for dinner. After the dinner, she said, the man quarreled with Mrs. Huna, struck her with a hammer and then shot her. Relatives said that jewels valued at $20,000 were missing.

FAMOUS NOVEL MADE IN GREAT MOTION PICTURE

"Monsieur Beaucaire," the new picture which marks the return of Rudolph Valentino to the screen, will begin a three days' run at the Eltinge theater starting Monday. The world and his wife—particularly his wife—will see in this simple announcement visions of a film feast for which their movie appetites have been hungering these many months.

It isn't difficult to understand why this photoplay is awaited with such keen expectations. Aside from the tremendous personal popularity of Valentino to whom millions pay tribute as the greatest lover of the screen, film fans who have read Booth Tarkington's immortal story, with its romantic, colorful and spectacular background of the court of King Louis XV of France, recognize its remarkable pictorial possibilities. It is a story that thrills the imagination, kindles the emotions, and satisfies that fundamental human desire for love, beauty, laughter and truth.

There is something vital and appealing to the character that Valentino portrays—the brave hearted, impetuous Duke, who defies the King of France and goes to England disguised as a barber. It is a part that brings into play all those robust dramatic qualities that Valentino possesses and which have made him one of the most fascinating and compelling screen stars of today.

No effort, no expense was spared to make "Monsieur Beaucaire," from an artistic standpoint, "a thing of beauty and joy forever." The gorgeous and historically correct costumes were designed and made in Paris. The glitter of gold and silver brocade, the sparkle of diamonds and sapphires, the flash of jeweled swords—all the beauty and splendor and brilliancy of the most magnificent court in the world's most romantic period are pictured with amazing fidelity. It's history come to life in all its vividness and grandeur.

We realize the painstaking care that went into the making of this production when we consider the supporting cast with which Director Sidney Olcott has surrounded Mr. Valentino: Bebe Daniels, as the "Princess de Bourbon-Conti"; Lowell Sherman, as King Louis XV; Lois Wilson, as the queen; Doris Kenyon, as Lady Mary; Paulette Goddard, as Mme. Pompadour; John Davidson, Richelleur; Ina Maclaren, Oswald; Victor, Flora Finch and about fifty others equally well-known.

And here's a parting word of suggestion, come early if you want to avoid the rush!

BISMARCK INFANT REACHES FOR PENCILS, CRAYONS, TO BE ARTIST

Instead of crying for his orange juice, when Robert Roland Kling was ten months old, he cried for pencils. Robert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kling, is now five years old, but he still is as fond of his crayons, paint brushes, or anything else that can be used for drawing pictures, as he was then. When he was promoted to the high chair, he forgave his breakfast while he made sketches of any article which appealed to him.

Animal drawings are his specialty, but he has of late attempted landscapes, and cars and inanimate objects come in for their share of delineation. His ability to observe is quite remarkable for such a young child; he notes details to an extent that many adults would envy.

Because at the age of two he drew so incessantly that his parents feared that he might injure his health, they insisted on his spending a certain amount of time out of doors; he is an energetic lad whose sparkling hazel eyes indicate a healthy condition, and his skin is tanned by out door play.

At 11 months Robert was given a 99 3/4 score in a baby clinic at Fargo by Dr. Matchon, baby specialist from Minneapolis; at two years, he had the vocabulary of a six year old child. So far he has had no formal instruction in art, and his parents say they plan to wait for that until he begins school at least.

"I wanted him to be a baseball player," said Mrs. Kling, "but it looks as if it will be more likely that he will be a cartoonist."

AT THE MOVIES

ELTINGE
The outstanding features of Paramount's "Wonder of the Westland," which had its first showing last night at the Eltinge Theatre, are the all-color photoplay and the flawless acting of a superb cast. This Zane Grey story has lost none of its vitality by its transfer to the screen. As a matter of fact, under the capable direction of Irvin Willat, the picture brings out with effective vividness all the dramatic strength of the story. Of course, the fact that it was made entirely in color—there isn't a black and white sequence in the entire feature—on the actual locations described in the books adds to its realism and pictorial beauty.

All of the featured roles are in the able hands of excellent players. Jack Holt's characterization of the title part is a notable one. Billie Dove fits perfectly into the picture; Noah Beery does a splendid bit of character acting, and Kathryn Williams, as usual, does very good work.

CAPITOL

Prepare yourself for a really hilarious evening. Buster Keaton in his newest Metro picture "Sherlock Jr.," is coming to the Capitol Theatre for 3 days beginning Monday. The star's latest effort is described as a "nut" comedy in several million episodes that fizz with concentrated pep and are flavored with unlimited touches of humor. Buster plays the part of a small-town movie theatre helper who yearns for the glory of Hollywood and the hand of "Hollywood's Sweetheart," a pampered, but pulchritudinous, darling. He realizes all of his desires, and a few more for good measure, but in a delirious way that promises a hoghead of fun for the spectators.

"Sherlock Jr." is presented by Joseph M. Schenck through Metro, and was directed by Keaton himself. The story was evolved by Jean Havez, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman.

SOME DAY the lovely home so long existent in your dreams will be a glad reality. Save, save, more. Hasten that happy day's arrival.

QUACK METHOD FOR FARMS IS HIT BY DAWES

Candidate Declares It Is So Serious That Quack Methods Are Passed Up

REPLIES TO DAVIS

Defends Own Views Against Increasing Reclamation Projects Now

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Declaring the agricultural situation to be of such a serious nature "that by common consent there is a turning away from political quack doctors," Charles G. Dawes, Republican Vice-Presidential candidate, speaking here last night, urged that it receive "a common sense consideration, free from political poison."

Such consideration, Mr. Dawes asserted, could come only through appointment of an impartial, non-partisan commission such as contemplated by President Coolidge and put forward as the Republican plan for bringing about agricultural relief.

The Vice-Presidential nominee declared John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, has chosen to discuss the agricultural problem in a political manner, and contended that the proper course was "that discussion which may result in a constructive solution, without stepping embarrassing facts in certain localities to gain votes."

Notice was taken by Mr. Dawes of the critical comment aroused not only in the Democratic party but from some in the Republican ranks by his declaration on irrigation and reclamation in his recent Lincoln speech. He repeated the statement that every irrigation and reclamation project, opened up tended to add to over-production in farm products, driving down prices, and declared that his critics "if they as public servants desire really to protect the interests of irrigation and reclamation, they should present its just claims in a proper and non-political way, from the basis of facts, and not a part of the great problem which must be solved for agricultural relief, if all producers of farm products including those on irrigated and, are to receive essential relief."

Mr. Dawes in his speech reiterated some of the statements made in his Lincoln address, declaring there was a great disparity in the earnings of the agricultural and industrial populations of the country, that agricultural distress was general, that the agricultural and industrial elements of the country are inter-dependent, that the recent advance in agricultural prices was only a natural result of the law of supply and demand, that the cause of farm troubles were fundamental, that there was over production in many lines of agricultural products, and that the theory of cooperative marketing and distribution is unquestionably sound, but in the operation of the principle involved many serious difficulties have been encountered.

Need For Commission
In view of this situation the contemplated commission to study the problem much as the Experts Committee studied the reparation problem, Mr. Dawes said, represent the best hope of real progress.

"The idea of an economic, non-partisan, and impartial commission, to suggest a plan for legislative or other relief is to have the subject impartially and competently considered from all standpoints," he added. "There is at present no consensus of either economic, agricultural or political opinion behind any specific remedy. It has NOT been possible to secure for any proposed plan of relief the endorsement of all the leading agricultural organizations although NOT following the advice of the politicians they are considering the question from a strictly non-partisan and economic basis."

"The commission plan is the only one I see it by which this great national agricultural problem can receive a common sense consideration, free from political poison. "It is most important that we have the right kind of a commission. Its competency and its impartiality must be unquestioned. It must be composed of others should be considered by it. It must be bound in consideration to no political creed or policy, any more than the recent Expert Committee in Europe. It must set forth its terms it will be in order to generally discuss it. "But as in Europe if a common one plan is evolved, a changed status of public opinion may then encourage the demagogues from continuing to try to beg general ear understanding in the interest of personal ambitions for office. The public will study the suggestion of a commission, which is impartial and competent, and public opinion should crystallize."

COOLIDGE IS OUT AHEAD IN DIGEST'S POLL

President First and LaFollette Second in First Tabulation Given

The most interesting feature in the first returns in The Literary Digest's poll of 15,000,000 votes published today is the remarkable showing made by LaFollette.

A total vote of 16,071 is tabulated for Coolidge, 5,596 for LaFollette, and 3,792 for Davis with 307 votes for the other five candidates.

Only 25,766 ballots have been returned at the date of publication but these came from the pivotal states of California, Illinois, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, with LaFollette running second in the first three and Davis second in the last two.

In California, LaFollette is running a strong second to Coolidge having 1,661 votes against the President's 1,624.

"There would be an indication here," The Digest states, "that, in California at least, both the Republicans and Democrats are looking heavily to the Progressive candidate, with the Republicans, as the party which polled the largest number of votes in the last election, the most serious losers."

"Coolidge," it continues, "from these earliest returns, appears to be much stronger in Illinois, although here, also, a comparison of the votes cast by these same voters in 1920 would seem to indicate a fall from the large total vote rolled up by Mr. Harding four years ago."

"In Ohio, these first few votes may be thought to suggest that Mr. Coolidge is far stronger today than his predecessor was in 1920."

"Pennsylvania, also, would seem to be as firmly, or more firmly, planted in the Republican column. It must be remembered, of course, that the present tabulation of ballots represents the merest smattering of a return. In Pennsylvania, for instance, nearly a million ballots are being distributed, a figure which may be compared with the present early return of less than 4,000 votes from that state. Also, these early returns must be accepted with the additional proviso that sections of Democratic strength are not represented in the five first States tabulated."

The Digest states that their poll does not yet give any real evidence of a deadlock, but adds that "such Washington correspondents as David Lawrence and Mark Sullivan are warning the country, because of the chance of a deadlock."

Barnes County Man Makes Success of Rotation

Valley City, N. D., Sept. 20.—There are many encouraging reports on crop yields but perhaps S. L. Lahlum, of Norma township, has a yield which is to be envied by many. Mr. Lahlum attributes his big yields this year to proper diversification.

On 150 acres Mr. Lahlum marketed 160 1-2 bushels of Marquis wheat at $1.22 a bushel netting $199.45; 517.40 bushels of Durum at $1.08 netting $559.10; 2,053.40 bushels of No. 1 Durum at $1.19 netting $2,443.45, making a total of $3,202.40. Besides the wheat sold he has also retained 100 bushels in the granary for seed. In 1922 Mr. Lahlum summer-fallowed 70 acres which was disc'd twice before putting into crop. In 1923 he summer-fallowed the other 80 acres which was then disc'd twice, and this spring the entire tract was plowed and twice before seeding to produce the moisture which this year was very essential as there has been very little rainfall in Norma township.

Mr. Lahlum has also under cultivation another tract of 320 acres and has 80 acres near the Sheyenne river which is used for pasture. He is the owner of 45 head of cattle, 10 of which are milch cows, 40 hogs, 16 horses, and 175 chickens. On the home farm he has 22 acres of corn and 9 acres of alfalfa. He reports that the proceeds from the 10 cows and 175 chickens has taken care of all expenses for a family of six.

This year the farm work was taken care of entirely without hiring any outside labor. Mr. Lahlum and his three boys, the oldest 20 years, doing all the work. Mr. Lahlum, who is president of the Norma township school board, believes in educating his children. The oldest boy graduated from the farm husbandry course at the agricultural college this spring and his daughter is now a senior in the Valley City high school.

QUACK METHOD FOR FARMS IS HIT BY DAWES

Candidate Declares It Is So Serious That Quack Methods Are Passed Up

REPLIES TO DAVIS
Defends Own Views Against Increasing Reclamation Projects Now

Siox Falls, S. D., Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Declaring the agricultural situation to be of such a serious nature "that by common consent there is a turning away from political quack doctors," Charles G. Dawes, Republican Vice-Presidential candidate, speaking here last night, urged that it receive "a common sense consideration, free from political poison."

Such consideration, Mr. Dawes asserted, could come only through appointment of an impartial, non-partisan commission such as contemplated by President Coolidge and put forward as the Republican plan for bringing about agricultural relief.

The Vice - Presidential nominee declared John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, has chosen to discuss the agricultural problem in a political manner, and contended that the proper course was "that discussion which may result in a constructive solution, without side-stepping embarrassing facts in certain localities to gain votes."

Notice was taken by Mr. Dawes of the critical comment aroused not only in the Democratic party but from some in the Republican ranks by his declaration on irrigation and reclamation in his recent Lincoln speech. He repeated the statement that every irrigation and reclamation project, opened up tended to add to over-production in farm products, driving down prices, and declared that his critics "if they as public servants desire really to protect the interests of irrigation and reclamation, they should present its just claims in a proper and non-political way, from the basis of facts, and as part of the great problem which must be solved for agricultural relief, if all producers of farm products including those on irrigated land, are to receive essential relief."

Mr. Dawes in his speech reiterated some of the statements made in his Lincoln address, declaring there was a great disparity in the earnings of the agricultural and industrial populations of the country, that agricultural distress was general, that the agricultural and industrial elements of the country are interdependent, that the recent advance in agricultural prices was only a natural result of the law of supply and demand, that the cause of farm troubles were fundamental, that there was over production in many lines of agricultural products, and that the theory of cooperative marketing and distribution is unquestionably sound, but in the operation of the principle involved many serious difficulties have been encountered.

Need For Commission
In view of the contemplated commission to study the problem much as the Experts Committee studied the reparation problem, Mr. Dawes said, represent the best hope of real progress.

"The idea of an economic, non-partisan, and impartial commission, or a suggestion for legislative or other relief is to have the subject impartially and competently considered from all standpoints," he added. "There is at present no consensus of either economic, agricultural or political opinion behind any specific remedy. It has NOT been possible to secure for any proposed plan of relief the endorsement of all of the leading agricultural organizations although NOT following the advice of the politicians they are considering the question from a strictly non-partisan and economic basis."

"The commission plan is the only one as I see it by which this great national agricultural problem can receive a common sense consideration, free from political poison."

"It is most important that we have the right kind of a commission. Its competency and its impartiality must be unquestioned. It must be absolutely non-political. All plans proposed by others should be considered by it. It must be bound in its consideration to no political creed or policy, any more than the recent Expert Committee in Europe. Then after it has suggested its plan and set forth its terms it will be in order to generally discuss it."

"But as in Europe if a common sense plan is evolved, a changed status of public opinion may then discourage the demagogues from continuing to try to befog general clear understanding in the interest of personal ambitions for office. The public will study the suggestions of a commission which is impartial and competent, and public opinion should crystallize."

European Plan
"The Experts' Plan in Europe was accepted because settled public opinion demanded its acceptance, and any government which had opposed its acceptance would have been overthrown by public opinion."

"There comes crises so great in national affairs that by common consent there is a turning away from political quack doctors. It seems to me that such a crisis is confronted in the agricultural situation."

"I hope the Commission may suggest a plan involving comprehensive relief, and at the very least, I would expect it to suggest plans and methods to bring substantial improvement. But of this, I am certain—that in the present state of public opinion on the debate of the agricultural problem, its creation represents the best hope for real progress."

WOMAN SLAIN BY EX-CONVICT SHE HAD AIDED

Chicago Woman Struck With Hammer, Then Shot, $20,000 Jewels Missing

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 20.—Mrs. C. Huna, 60, said to be the wife of a Chicago firm of ink manufacturers, was found slain on the third floor of a bungalow apartment here at night, her skull smashed by a hammer blow and a bullet wound her heart.

According to the police, her assailant was Conners, 45, a former convict whom she had befriended when he was serving a prison sentence in Illinois for robbery, whose release she had helped to obtain and whose efforts to start life anew she had aided with gifts of clothes and money.

Mrs. Huna's eight-year-old adopted daughter, Virginia, told investigators that Conners had called at the apartment last night, had been cordially received and invited to remain for dinner. After the dinner, she said, the man quarreled with Mrs. Huna, struck her with a hammer and then shot her. Relatives said that jewels valued at $20,000 were missing.

FAMOUS NOVEL MADE IN GREAT MOTION PICTURE

"Monsieur Beaucaire," the new picture which marks the return of Rudolph Valentino to the screen, will begin a three days' run at the Eltinge theater, starting Monday. The world and his wife—particularly his wife—will see in this simple announcement visions of a film feast for which their movie appetites have been hungering these many months.

It isn't difficult to understand why this photoplay is awaited with such keen expectations. Aside from the tremendous personal popularity of Valentino, to whom millions pay tribute as the greatest lover of the silver sheet, film fans who have read Booth Tarkington's immortal story, with its romantic, colorful and spectacular background of the court of King Louis XV of France, recognize its remarkable pictorial possibilities. It is a story that thrills the imagination, kindles the emotions, and satisfies that fundamental human desire for love, beauty, laughter and truth.

There is something vital and appealing to the character that Valentino portrays, the brave hearted, impetuous Duke, who defies the King of France and goes to England disguised as a barber. It is a part that brings into play all those robust dramatic qualities that Valentino possesses and which have made him one of the most fascinating and compelling screen stars of today.

No effort, no expense was spared to make "Monsieur Beaucaire" from an artistic standpoint, "a thing of beauty and joy forever." The gorgeous and historically correct costumes were designed and made in Paris. The glitter of gold and silver brocade, the sparkle of diamonds and sapphires, the flash of jeweled swords—all the beauty and splendor and brilliancy of the most magnificent court in the world's most romantic period are pictured with amazing fidelity. The history comes to life in all its vividness and grandeur.

We realize the painstaking care that went into the making of this production when we consider the supporting cast with which Director Sidney Olcott has surrounded Mr. Valentino: Bebe Daniels, as the Princess de Bourbon-Conti; Lowell Sherman, as King Louis XV; Lois Wilson, as the queen; Doris Kenyon, as Lady Mary; Paulette Goddard, as Mme. Pompadour; John Davidson, as Richelieu; MacLaren, Oswald, York, Florn Finch and about fifty other equally well-known.

And here's a parting word of suggestion, come early if you want to avoid the rush!

BISMARCK INFANT REACHES FOR PENCILS, CRAYONS, TO BE ARTIST

Instead of crying for his orange juice, when Robert Roland Kling was ten months old, he cried for pencils. Robert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kling, is now five years old, but he still is as fond of his crayons, paint brushes, or anything else that can be used for drawing pictures, as he was then. When he was pronounced to the high chair, he forced his breakfast while he made sketches of any article which appealed to him.

Animal drawings are his specialty, but he has of late attempted landscapes, and cars and inanimate objects come in for their share of delineation. His ability to observe is quite remarkable for such a young child; he notes details to an extent that many adults would envy.

Because at the age of two he drew so incessantly that his parents feared that he might injure his health, they insisted on his spending a certain amount of time out of doors; he is an energetic lad whose sparkling hazel eyes indicate a healthy condition, and his skin is tanned by out door play.

At 11 months Robert was given a 90-3-4 score in a baby clinic at Fargo by Dr. Matchon, baby specialist from Minneapolis; at two years, he had the vocabulary of a six year old child. So far he has had no formal instruction in art, and his parents say they plan to wait for that until he begins school at least.

"I wanted him to be a baseball player," said Mrs. Kling, "but it looks as if it will be more likely that he will be a cartoonist."

AT THE MOVIES

ELTINGE

The outstanding features of Paramount's "Wanderer of the Wasteland," which had its first showing last night at the Eltinge Theatre, are the all-color photoplay and the flawless acting of a superb cast. This Zane Grey story has lost none of its vitality by its transfer to the screen. As a matter of fact, under the capable direction of Irvin Willat, the picture brings out with effective vividness all the dramatic strength of the story. Of course, the fact that it was made entirely in color there isn't a black and white sequence in the entire feature—on the actual locations described in the books adds to its realism and pictorial beauty.

All of the featured roles are in the able hands of excellent players. Jack Holt's characterization of the title part is a notable one. Billie Dove fits perfectly into the picture; Noah Berry does a splendid bit of character acting, and Kathryn Williams, as usual, does very good work.

THE PICTURE WILL BE SHOWN AGAIN TONIGHT.

CAPITOL

Prepare yourself for a really hilarious evening. Buster Keaton in his newest Metro picture "Sherlock Jr." is coming to the Capitol Theatre for 3 days beginning Monday. The star's latest effort is described as a "nut" comedy in several million episodes that fizz with concentrated pen and are flavored with unlimited touches of humor.

Buster plays the part of a small-town movie theatre helper who yearns for the glory of Hollywood and the hand of "Hollywood's Sweetheart," a pampered, but pulchritudinous, durling. He realizes all of his desires, and a few more for good measure, but in a delirious way that promises a hoghead of fun for the spectators.

"Sherlock Jr." is presented by Joseph M. Schenck through Metro, and was directed by Keaton himself. The story was evolved by Jean Haves, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman.

REPORT THAT U.S. INTERESTS HELP PEKING

Japanese Sources Declare That Aid Is Given To Central Government

Tokio, Sept. 20.—Because of the reported breakdown in the Chekiang defense of Shanghai and the possible defeat of General Lu Wung-hsiang, said to be a favorite of the Japanese government, by reason of his association with the old Anfu party, Japanese interests in the Chinese war was growing more intense. The vernacular press today gave prominence to reports from correspondents in China alleging American interests were supporting Wu-Pei-fu, military head of the Peking government. The dispatches assert that the Wu-Pei-fu forces, out of Chinese provinces were furnished with arms from the United States war craft anchored. Shanghai correspondents assert American interests are aiding the invading Kiangsu forces with American controlled radio-casting apparatus. Another story sent from Manchuria by a Japanese correspondent tells of the arrest of an alleged American spy who was said to be in the employ of the Peking government.

BORN TO MISS THE JOY OF IT

You have to feel a bit sorry for the Prince of Wales. He seems to be a good fellow with an inclination to enjoy himself in a human way, and observe how he is pestered.

Upon leaving home he has to observe the royal custom of traveling incognito—as Lord Rennet, or something equally as good—and yet, before he boards his boat, the world knows all about his incognito.

He finds his steamer packed with folks who have fought to get passage so that they may say "Oh yes, indeed! I came over with the Prince of Wales," and who riot for places from which to stare at him.

If he dances, he is surrounded by a ring of brazen starrers and is bound to feel that every female present has marriage or other social designs on him.

He is entertained and slobbered over in some big American cities until he's tired and sick, mentally and, perhaps, physically. Then, he goes to the wilds of Canada, "for a good time," with promise to be able to "rough it." And what will he get there?

Will he hang his necktie and white shirt on a bush and make him a bed of pine boughs? Will he put up a tent and fry his own flap-jacks and bacon? Will he carry a canoe over a portage and paddle it through the lily pads of the silvery lake?

Will he tramp out his own crawfish bait from the mud, and smoke a cob pipe? Will he go out among the great pines, alone, as the sun sinks below the mountains, to see, hear and feel nature going to bed?

Will he chop and carry wood for the campfire and sit in its glow to smoke, to think and to praise God for the rhythm of wavelets upon beach pebbles, the hymn of night breezes in the dark forest, the twittering of young birds being put to sleep, the wonders of the stars, and the blessed freedom of a man who is being just himself?

Will he get the relief, the joy of feeling "Here are just God and His great works, and myself?"

Alas! It cannot be. His title is too precious. None of the enjoyable roughness of the wilds for him. His bacon will be served tied with ribbons, his crawfish will be served bathed and polished, his spotless clothes will be served by a professional valet from a palace, and a crowd of flunkies will spoil all the loneliness and naturalness of it.

Poor Prince! None of the splendid wildness of the great outdoors for him.

BUNK

When John Wilkes Booth leaped to the stage of Ford's Theater after shooting Abraham Lincoln, he did not stop dramatically and shout, "Sic semper tyrannis" or anything else. If he said anything at all, he didn't stop when he was saying it. He was fleeing for his life and he wasted no time on speeches.

This is the version of William J. Ferguson, who was call-boy and prompter at Ford's Theater that historic night.

There's a lot of bunk in history—to make it thrill us. Napoleon's famed pose was not for meditation or effect, but to keep his cape about him for warmth.

LOVE

A Michigan farmer pretended to be insane, so he could join his wife who already had been committed to the asylum. He'd have won his wish if the judge had not noticed a gleam of joy in his eyes when the farmer's commitment papers had been made out.

Love in extreme cases resembles the law of gravity or the force that pulls a needle to a magnet. It is one of the very few psychic or spiritual forces that exists in all people.

Maybe some heartless scientist of the future will learn how to neutralize love—enable its victims to forget its lure—as we now can demagnetize metal.

INFLATED

Among other things, many farmers are the victims of land speculation—trying to earn a fair rate of profit on land bought at too high prices during post-war speculation.

Industry did the same, only on a gigantic scale. Most businesses inflated their capitalization, by stock dividends chiefly, to dodge the tax collector. They've been trying to earn the old-time rate of return on more capitalization than they are economically entitled to.

COMING

Inflated prices have been reduced considerably. There'll be more reduction, by waves or cycles, as the years slip by.

The next major movement or cycle in industry will be deflation of capitalization. Already it's becoming necessary and unavoidable. Many industries have seen the light and acted.

A business that valued itself at $200,000 in the boom, but worth only $100,000 now, is not going to be able to earn on the high basis during sharp competition.

BRIDE

Massachusetts man married a pretty waitress. In the following year she purchased two new suits a week—104 in the year. This comes out at the divorce hearing.

Apparently this bride gratified a long suppressed desire for fine feathers. We all have some such desire. But few are ever able to gratify the yearning, as did this ex-waitress. She was Cinderella, though only for a year. Now she has the memories—and the gowns.

PROHIBITION

Uncle Sam's rum sleuths are arresting liquor law violators at the rate of 50,000 a year. And convicting 35 out of every 41. Fifty thousand arrests in a population of about 112 millions! This is number eight to be added to the list of seven original jokes. How many violators escape entirely? Hundreds of thousands or millions? The nets still are spread too much for minnows, not enough for whales.

THE ANCIENT DELUSION

(The Minneapolis Journal)
Senator LaFollette, or at any rate his Socialist followers, profess to quarrel with the system of capitalism and they vainly would rid the people of their subjection to capitalism. But the protest is really against nature, against the subjection of man to the ways and decrees of nature.

This arises from that ancient and honorable delusion, as old as Rousseau, as well meaning as Ruskin, that nature is essentially benevolent and even compassionate, and that what hinders man from benefiting from nature's bounty and having an easy time of it, is some diabolical selfishness on the part of some of us, which prevents us all from conforming to nature and from enjoying richly the emoluments that nature, like a fostering mother, hands out to us, her children, or would if we but allowed her.

That is the illusion of Karl Marx inherited from the French Revolution. And he was born too early in the Nineteenth Century and was too stubbornly immersed in his own inner consciousness, so as to speak, to be effected by the scientific thinking of Darwin and his successors, which went far to rectify the sentimental conception of nature enunciated by Rousseau in the Eighteenth Century and perpetuated even in our own day by Tolstoy.

Capitalism, like feudalism before it, is not responsible for the difficulty of human life on this planet, for the work, the pain, the scanty profits, the sickness, the death that attend man's existence. Feudalism at one time aided men in their battle against nature. And capitalism has certainly done so in much larger measure in the time it has been developed.

Marx's fundamental notion that capitalism meant that the rich must grow richer and the poor poorer, is proved by the years since the dawn of the twentieth century. There are more people going to and from more persons get an increasingly larger share, as the statistics of wages the last ten years, and especially the last ten, disclose. The wealth of civilization has increased since Marx's day many fold. So has the individual welfare. Henry Ford in twenty years has made a stupendous fortune, and in doing so has dispensed welfare to thousands of artisans and provided millions with improved transportation.

Of course, there are reforms to be made from time to time. But capitalism so far has been the best vehicle devised to carry men and nations on, through journey after journey. That journey never can be made easy. The price of tolerable living is diligence, care, foresight, intelligence, devotion. And error, loss, sickness, despair, will attend man's efforts to the last day of earth.

The efforts of men like Senator LaFollette to improve concrete conditions, to repress fraud, to punish injustice, are laudable. But their notion that the capitalist system, so-called, is responsible for all the ills that flesh is heir to, is not only a delusion, but also a danger. Given political power, they could and would make a sad mess of the complicated machinery by which our comfort and welfare are afforded. Mr. LaFollette repudiates Moscow, but he would make a Moscow here, if given the chance.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Now," said Mrs. Cracknuts severely to Scamper and Scramble Squirrel, her grandsons, "you've both been naughty boys so you'll have to go to bed without any supper. I know smoke when I smell it, and matches, too!"

"But—" said Scamper and Scramble, "we—"

"But me no buts," said Mrs. Cracknuts. "Off you go."

So there wasn't anything to be done but just as she said. They hadn't a chance to tell her that it was only Indian-beans or Indian-tobies, as they are sometimes called, that they were smoking just for fun.

"And now," said Mrs. Cracknuts when they had gone, "I'll just send their suits to Mister Snip Snap at Nancy Nick and Company's store to clean and press. Then they'll be in good order for school next week."

So she bundled up the two suits and gave them to Daddy Cracknuts to deliver.

"While I'm at it," said the old gentleman squirrel, "I'll take that old smoking-coat of mine along, too. It's all covered with spots and good cleaning won't hurt it."

"Why, yes, we can fix up all the things as good as new," said Nick, when Daddy Cracknuts came into the store and told him his errand. "How is everybody at your house?"

"Just fine!" said Daddy Cracknuts.

But he did not say a word about Ma having put the boys to bed. I think he had very good taste not to mention it, don't you?

Now Daddy Cracknuts had forgotten something. He had forgotten to take his pipe and matches out of one of the pockets of his smoking coat.

So when he had gone, Nick took all the things out and put them away while the coat was being fixed.

Nancy sewed on buttons and rubbed off spots and Mister Snip

LETTER FROM ANNETTE ANDERSON TO MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:

I hope you will forgive me for bothering you for with your fear and grief over your father's illness. I certainly do not wish to add to your burdens in any way. But I have to tell you—and I may as well do it first as last—that I am going to leave Mrs. Prescott, Miss Bradford and I cannot live in the same apartment.

I do not know what there is about that old maid, but there surely is something that brings out every critical and unkind faculty in your mother-in-law's personality.

Being a woman who is readily influenced, but in her case I have found how easy it is to appeal to the worst that is in all of us. Miss Bradford makes Mrs. Prescott feel that she is not only abused and her more than wonderful, infallible judgment absolutely disregarded, but she is all the time flattering Mrs. Prescott's narrow egotism by telling her that her opinion is much better, on account of her long life and experience, than yours could possibly be. Of course I do not mean this is being done in so many words, but the intimation is clear.

I have been long enough, my dear Mrs. Prescott, with all sorts and conditions of men and women, to know that age has nothing to do with judgment. A child of 16 is sometimes better capable of judging the affairs of modern life than a man or a woman of 60, who has grown up in a secluded environment and is full of narrow-minded prejudices.

Miss Bradford seems to sour all the milk of human kindness that is in Mrs. Prescott's heart. She has made her think that her son, through your influence is not treating her as a son should treat his mother. Nothing I can do seems able to change her thoughts to something happier or more kindly, for Miss Bradford has succeeded in making Mrs. Prescott think that I am in league with you to curtail her importance and influence in her son's eyes.

Since Mr. Prescott went away, Miss Bradford has persuaded his mother that the thing to do is to give your apartment a thorough cleaning. Of course I think this is only an excuse to go through your most private things, but I dare not suggest this to Mrs. Prescott. In fact, I think Mrs. Prescott also has a sneaking curiosity to know exactly what you have and how you keep it.

You of course know that your cook has left. I believe Mrs. Prescott wrote that to you. As her son took Sarah with little Jack, of course your mother-in-law has usurped all the authority in your apartment. Yesterday when I returned from my daily walk, I found them emptying your clothes closets, and the rooms were a sight.

Trunks had been emptied, bureau drawers turned out on beds and sofas, and all the clothing that you had put away in closets as well as that on hangers, had been taken out of the closet.

Your mother had hired a very ordinary scrub woman to wash down the walls and the floors, and she told me she was going to have her brush your clothes and put them back tomorrow. The woman was slovenly in the extreme, and I am quite sure she will never get them back in the places where you had them.

Both Miss Bradford and Mrs. Prescott were exclaiming over your extravagance in clothes. Next week Mrs. Prescott says she intends to send your beautiful

CITY DOOMED, SAYS FORD

By Albert Apple

The modern city has done its work. The city has taught us much. But the overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewerage and sanitary systems, the cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people are so great as to offset the benefits of the city.

This is Henry Ford's idea, expressed in an interview in Automotive Industries Magazine.

Ford says he believes that sharp competition will compel industries to move out into small communities. Overhead costs and living expenses would be lower there.

Some years back, Ford advanced the idea of establishing factories in rural districts where farmers could work in their dull seasons of the year. Growing most of his own food, each industrial producer under this system would also be his own boss part of the time.

A handicap to this system would be if industries owned the farm-homes and supervised them ruthlessly, as is now done with homes and gardens in many mining towns.

Today the big city is an industrial center. Ford predicts a time when the industrial center will be a chain of small towns, each with its factories and mills, farms nearby.

Ford does not seem to reckon with the part the airplane may play in breaking up the big cities. If planes get safe, fool-proof and as inexpensive as auto flivvers, father could live far out in the country or even in the woods and fly hundreds of miles to and from work in the city.

The city would no longer be a residential district on any big scale. It would have factories, mills, stores and theaters.

With airplanes cheap and fast, and radio bringing movies and music and news to the far-off home, the problem of city congestion would be easily solved.

The public, however, might object to isolation—even in groups of families. City dwellers are responding to much the same spirit that makes bees flock together in a common hive, wasps in a paper nest, ants in a hill.

New York, Sept. 20.—George Buchanan Fife is the most distinguished appearing newspaper reporter in New York.

He is an assignment writer on an evening paper and has been engaged in newspaper work since 1892.

Fife dresses the part of every story he covers. He blends his wardrobe to match the scene he is to enter.

He has been "covering" the Prince of Wales and his party. I saw him on several occasions and it was impossible to distinguish him from intimate members of the royal group. It was easy to pick out the other newspaper representatives.

Fife has gray hair, a sandy mustache and is tall.

In court trials, Fife frequently is mistaken for an attorney.

FABLES ON HEALTH— FIGHTING A COLD

"Once a cold has been contracted the rules for prevention should be reversed," the Jones family doctor admonished.

"It is then advisable to avoid drafts, various fluctuating temperatures and skin exercises."

"The great idea then is to keep the body warm, and the feet in particular. A hot footbath is a good thing right off the bat; then a hot drink; then a good purgative and a good rubbing of neck and chest with camphorated oil."

"When the footbath is taken then it's a good idea to wrap the body in a blanket and then immediately go to bed. A bath with water at 95 to 100 degrees is restful to the nerves and skin."

"Eat lightly, preferably vegetables. And afterward, build up the body and skin to avoid recurrences."

MANDAN NEWS

MAY NOT LOSE LEG
Steve Kubisiak, care repainer in the local N. P. shop force, who Thursday suffered severe injuries when run over by a freight car while he was employed at repair work on livestock equipment in the Sunny yards, may not have to suffer amputation of the limb, it was stated by Dr. W. C. Allen, railroad surgeon.

The physician marveled at the fact that a freight car could roll over a man's leg without necessitating amputation. While removal of the right leg about midway between the ankle and knee was considered almost necessary yesterday, the condition of the injured man was surprisingly favorable today. Good circulation prevails in the foot and the leg below the badly crushed bones and muscles. The broken leg was the only injury sustained. Kubisiak, at present a patient at the Deaconess Hospital will soon be removed to the Northern Pacific hospital at Glendive.

AWARD CONTRACTS
Contracts totaling more than $13,000 were awarded by the building committee of Mandan Lodge No. 8 A. F. & A. M., in connection with the completion of the basement floor of the new Masonic temple as temporary quarters to be used until the whole structure is completed next year.

Agaton Larson was awarded the contract for the carpentry, cabinet and other finishing work and Carl Winbauer was awarded the contract for the plumbing and heating fixtures.

FRIENDSHIP

(Florence Borner)

Welded together for weal or woe,
Heated in Destiny's fiery flame,
Proven and tried on the Forge of Life—
These are worthy of Friendship's name.

Sharing each others joys and cares,
Sailing together Life's solemn main;
Knowing and reading each others souls,
These are worthy of Friendship's name.

BORN TO MISS THE JOY OF IT

You have to feel a bit sorry for the Prince of Wales. He seems to be a good fellow with an inclination to enjoy himself in a human way, and observe how he is pestered. Upon leaving home he has to observe the royal custom of traveling incognito—as Lord Rennet, or something equally as good—and yet, before he boards his boat, the world knows all about his incognito.

He finds his steamer packed with folks who have fought to get passage so that they may say "Oh yes, indeed! I came over with the Prince of Wales," and who riot for places from which to stare at him.

If he dances, he is surrounded by a ring of brazen stargers and is bound to feel that every female present has marriage or other social designs on him.

He is entertained and slobbered over in some big American cities until he's tired and sick, mentally and, perhaps, physically. Then, he goes to the wilds of Canada, "for a good time," with promise to be able to "rough it." And what will he get there?

Will he hang his necktie and white shirt on a bush and make him a bed of pine boughs? Will he put up a tent and fry his own flap-jacks and bacon? Will he carry a canoe over a portage and paddle it through the lily pads of the silvery lake?

Will he tramp out his own crawfish bait from the mud, and smoke a cob pipe? Will he go out among the great pines, alone, as the sun sinks below the mountains, to see, hear and feel nature going to bed?

Will he chop and carry wood for the campfire and sit in its glow to smoke, to think and to praise God for the rhythm of wavelets upon beach pebbles, the hymn of night breezes in the dark forest, the twittering of young birds being put to sleep, the wonders of the stars, and the blessed freedom of a man who is being just himself?

Will he get the relief, the joy of feeling "Here are just God and His great works, and myself?"

Alas! It cannot be. His title is too precious. None of the enjoyable roughness of the wilds for him. His bacon will be served tied with ribbons, his crawfish will be served bathed and polished, his spotless clothes will be served by a professional valet from a palace, and a crowd of flunkies will spoil all the loneliness and naturalness of it.

Poor Prince! None of the splendid wildness of the great outdoors for him.

BUNK

When John Wilkes Booth leaped to the stage of Ford's Theater after shooting Abraham Lincoln, he did not stop dramatically and shout, "Sic semper tyrannis" or anything else. If he said anything at all, he didn't stop when he was saying it. He was fleeing for his life and he wasted no time on speeches.

This is the version of William J. Ferguson, who was call-boy and prompter at Ford's Theater that historic night. There's a lot of bunk in history—to make it thrill us. Napoleon's famed pose was not for meditation or effect, but to keep his cape about him for warmth.

LOVE

A Michigan farmer pretended to be insane, so he could join his wife who already had been committed to the asylum. He'd have won his wish if the judge had not noticed a gleam of joy in his eyes when the farmer's commitment papers had been made out.

Love in extreme cases resembles the law of gravity or the force that pulls a needle to a magnet. It is one of the very few psychic or spiritual forces that exists in all people. Maybe some heartless scientist of the future will learn how to neutralize love—enable its victims to forget its lure—as we now can demagnetize metal.

INFLATED

Among other things, many farmers are the victims of land speculation—trying to earn a fair rate of profit on land bought at too high prices during post-war speculation.

Industry did the same, only on a gigantic scale. Most businesses inflated their capitalization, by stock dividends chiefly, to dodge the tax collector. They've been trying to earn the old-time rate of return on more capitalization than they are economically entitled to.

COMING

Inflated prices have been reduced considerably. There'll be more reduction, by waves or cycles, as the years slip by. The next major movement or cycle in industry will be a deflation of capitalization. Already it's becoming necessary and unavoidable. Many industries have seen the light and acted.

A business that valued itself at $200,000 in the boom, but worth only $100,000 now, is not going to be able to earn on the high basis during sharp competition.

BRIDE

Massachusetts man married a pretty waitress. In the following year she purchased two new suits a week—104 in the year. This comes out at the divorce hearing.

Apparently this bride gratified a long suppressed desire for fine feathers. We all have some such desire. But few are ever able to gratify the yearning, as did this ex-waitress. She was Cinderella, though only for a year. Now she has the memories—and the gowns.

PROHIBITION

Uncle Sam's rum sleuths are arresting liquor law violators at the rate of 50,000 a year. And convicting 35 out of every 41. Fifty thousand arrests in a population of about 112 millions! This is number eight to be added to the list of seven original jokes. How many violators escape entirely? Hundreds of thousands or millions? The nets still are spread too much for minnows, not enough for whales.

THE ANCIENT DELUSION

(The Minneapolis Journal)
Senator LaFollette, or at any rate his Socialist followers, profess to quarrel with the system of capitalism and they vainly would rid the people of their subjection to capitalism. But the protest is really against nature, against the subjection of man to the ways and deities of nature.

This arises from that ancient and honorable delusion, as old as Rousseau, as well meaning as Ruskin, that nature is essentially benevolent and even compassionate; and that what hinders man from benefiting from nature's bounty and having an easy time of it, is some diabolical selfishness on the part of some of us, which prevents us all from conforming to nature and from enjoying richly the emoluments that nature, like a fosterer, hands out to us, her children, or would it be but allowed her.

That is the illusion of Karl Marx inherited from the French Revolution. And he was born too early in the Nineteenth Century and was too stubbornly immersed in his own inner consciousness, so to speak, to be effected by the scientific thinking of Darwin and his successors, which went far to rectify the sentimental conception of nature, nomenclature by Rousseau in the Eighteenth Century and perpetuated even in our own day by Tolstoy.

Capitalism, like feudalism before it, is not responsible for the difficulty of human life on this planet, for the work, the pain, the scanty profits, the sickness, the death that attend man's existence. Feudalism at one time aided men in their battle against nature. And capitalism has certainly done so in much larger measure in the time it has been developed.

Marx's fundamental notion that capitalism meant that the rich must grow richer and the poor poorer, is proved by the years since his death to be untrue. Society has constantly been growing richer, except as nations have destroyed themselves since capitalism obtained recognition. Capitalism provides more to divide and the division is fairer than ever before. There are more goods to go around and more persons get an increasingly larger share, as the statistics of wages the last fifty years, and especially the last ten, disclose. The wealth of civilization has increased since Marx's day many fold. To have the individual welfare, Henry Ford in twenty years has made a stupendous fortune, and in doing so has dispensed welfare to thousands of artisans and provided millions with improved transportation.

Of course, there are reforms to be made from time to time. But capitalism so far has been the best vehicle devised to carry men and women on their journey through life. That journey never can be made easy. The price of tolerable living is diligence, care, foresight, intelligence, devotion. And error, loss, sickness, despair, will attend man's efforts to the last day of earth.

The efforts of men like Senator LaFollette to improve concrete conditions, to repress trade union punishment, are laudable. But their notion that the capitalist system, as called, is responsible for all the ills that flesh is heir to, is not only a delusion, but also a danger. Given political power, they could and would make a sad mess of the complicated machinery by which our comfort and welfare are afforded. Mr. LaFollette repudiates Moscow, but he would make a Moscow here, if given the chance.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Now," said Mrs. Cracknuts severely to Scamper and Scramble Squirrel, her grandsons, "you've been naughty boys so you'll have to go to bed without any supper. I know snakes when I smell it, and matches, too!"

"But—" said Scamper and Scramble, "we—"

"But me no buts," said Mrs. Cracknuts. "Off you go." So there wasn't anything to be done but just do as she said. They hadn't a chance to tell her that it was only Indian-beans or Indian-tobies, as they are sometimes called, that they were smoking just for fun.

"And now," said Mrs. Cracknuts when they had gone, "I'll just send their suits to Mister Snip Snap at Nancy Nick and Company's store to clean and press. Then they'll be in good order for school next week."

So she bundled up the two suits and gave them to Daddy Cracknuts to deliver. "While I'm at it," said the old gentleman squirrel, "I'll take that old smoking-coat of mine along, too. It's all covered with spots and a good cleaning won't hurt it."

"Why, yes, we can fix up all the things as good as new," said Nick, when Daddy Cracknuts came into the store and told him his errand. "How is everybody at your house?" "Fine!" said Daddy Cracknuts. "Just fine!" But he did not say a word about Ma having put the boys to bed. I think he had very good taste not to mention it, don't you?

Now Daddy Cracknuts had forgotten something. He had forgotten to take his pipe and matches out of one of the pockets of his smoking coat.

So when he had gone, Nick took all the things out and put them away while the coat was being fixed.

Nancy sewed on buttons and rubbed off spots and Mister Snip

LETTER FROM ANNETTE ANDERSON TO MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:
I hope you will forgive me for bothering you, for with your fear and grief over your father's illness, I certainly do not wish to add to your burdens in any way. But I have to tell you—and I may as well do it first as last—that I am going to leave Mrs. Prescott. Miss Bradford and I cannot live in the same apartment.

I do not know what there is about that old maid, but there surely is something that brings out every critical and unkind faculty in your mother-in-law's personality. Mrs. Prescott does not strike me as being a woman who is readily influenced, but in her case I have found how easy it is to appeal to the worst that is in all of us. Miss Bradford makes Mrs. Prescott feel that she is not only abused and her more than wonderful, infallible judgment absolutely disregarded, but she is all the time flattering Mrs. Prescott's narrow egotism by telling her that her opinion is much better, on account of her long life and experience, than yours could possibly be. Of course I do not mean this is being done in so many words, but the intimation is clear.

I have been long enough, my dear Mrs. Prescott, with all sorts and conditions of men and women, to know that age has nothing to do with judgment. A child of 16 is sometimes better capable of judging the affairs of modern life than a man or a woman of 60, who has grown up in a secluded environment and is full of narrow-minded prejudices.

Miss Bradford seems to sour all the milk of human kindness that is in Mrs. Prescott's heart. She has made her think that her son, through your influence is not treating her as a son should treat his mother. Nothing I can do seems able to change her thoughts to something happier or more kindly, for Miss Bradford has succeeded in making Mrs. Prescott think that I am in league with you to curtail her importance and influence in her son's eyes.

Since Mr. Prescott went away, Miss Bradford has persuaded his mother that the thing to do is to give your apartment a thorough cleaning. Of course I think this is only an excuse to go through your most private things, but I dare not suggest this to Mrs. Prescott. In fact, I think Mrs. Prescott also has a sneaking curiosity to know exactly what you have and how you keep it.

You of course know that your cook has left. I believe Mrs. Prescott wrote that to you. As her son took Sarah with little Jack of course your mother-in-law has usurped all the authority in your apartment. Yesterday when I returned from my daily walk, I found them emptying your clothes closets, and the rooms were a sight. Trunks had been emptied, bureau drawers turned out on beds and sofas, and all the clothing that you had put away in closets as well as that on hangers, had been taken out of the closet.

Your mother had hired a very ordinary scrub woman to wade down the walls and the floors, and she told me she was going to have her brush your clothes and put them back tomorrow. The woman was slovenly in the extreme, and I am quite sure she will never get them back in the places where you had them.

Both Miss Bradford and Mrs. Prescott were exclaiming over your extravagance in clothes.

Next week Mrs. Prescott says she intends to send your beautiful

CITY DOOMED, SAYS FORD

By Albert Apple

The modern city has done its work. The city has taught us much. But the overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewerage and sanitary systems, the cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people are so great as to offset the benefits of the city.

This is Henry Ford's idea, expressed in an interview in Automotive Industries Magazine.

Ford says he believes that sharp competition will compel industries to move out into small communities. Overhead costs and living expenses would be lower there.

Some years back, Ford advanced the idea of establishing factories in rural districts where farmers could work in their dull seasons of the year. Growing most of his own food, each industrial producer under this system would also be his own boss part of the time.

A handicap to this system would be if industries owned the farm-homes and supervised them ruthlessly, as is now done with homes and gardens in many mining towns.

Today the big city is an industrial center. Ford predicts a time when the industrial center will be a chain of small towns, each with its factories and mills, farms nearby.

Ford does not seem to reckon with the part the airplane may play in breaking up the big cities. If planes get safe, fool-proof and as inexpensive as auto flivvers, father could live far out in the country or even in the woods and fly hundreds of miles to and from work in the city.

The city would no longer be a residential district on any big scale. It would have factories, mills, stores and theaters.

With airplanes cheap and fast, and radio bringing movies and music and news to the far-off home, the problem of city congestion would be easily solved.

The public, however, might object to isolation—even in groups of families. City dwellers are responding to much the same spirit that makes bees flock together in a common hive, wasps in a paper nest, ants in a hill.

New York, Sept. 20.—George Buchanan Fife is the most distinguished appearing newspaper reporter in New York.

He is an assignment writer on an evening paper and has been engaged in newspaper work since 1892. Fife dresses the part of every story he covers. He blends his wardrobe to match the scene he is to enter.

He has been "covering" the Prince of Wales and his party. I saw him on several occasions and it was impossible to distinguish him from intimate members of the royal group. It was easy to pick out the other newspaper representatives.

Fife has gray hair, a sandy moustache and is tall.

In court trials, Fife frequently is mistaken for an attorney.

Golf paraphernalia-dealers make it as convenient as possible for busy business men in this town. They bring their wares to the office buildings and use the private office rug as putting green, driving tee and the desk as a hazard to demonstrate to prospective purchasers.

Singing, dancing and flag waving is profitable. George M. Cohan, Broadway's song and dance man, has just sold his country home. The price was $347,000. A newspaperman bought it.

Vaudeville is being depleted of its funny people. They are moving into Broadway musical shows. Never before has there been such a dearth of new comedy and laughing material. Comedy acts are being looked for two years solid. A fortune awaits those who can amuse people.

FABLES ON HEALTH FIGHTING A COLD

"Once a cold has been contracted the rules for prevention should be reversed," the Jones family doctor admonished.

"It is then advisable to avoid drafts, various fluctuating temperatures and skin exercises."

MAY NOT LOSE LEG
Steve Kubisiak, care repainer in the local N. P. shop, force, who Thursday suffered severe injuries when run over by a freight car while he was employed at repair work on livestock equipment in the Sunny yards, may not have to suffer amputation of the limb, it was stated by Dr. W. C. Allen, railroad surgeon.

The physician marvelled at the fact that a freight car could roll over a man's leg without necessitating amputation. While removal of the right leg about midway between the ankle and knee was considered almost necessary yesterday, the condition of the injured man was surprisingly favorable today. Good circulation prevails in the foot and the leg below the badly crushed bones and muscles. The broken leg was the only injury sustained. Kubisiak, at present a patient at the Deaconess Hospital will soon be removed to the Northern Pacific hospital at Glendive.

AWARD CONTRACTS
Contracts totaling more than $13,000 were awarded by the building committee of Mandan Lodge No. 8 A. F. & A. M., in connection with the completion of the basement floor of the new Masonic temple as temporary quarters to be used until the whole structure is completed next year.

Agaton Larson was awarded the contract for the carpentry, cabinet and other finishing work and Carl Winbauer was awarded the contract for the plumbing and heating fixtures.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 20.—Possibility of 2,000 acres being contracted for the growth of fibre flax in the vicinity of Greater Grand Forks are seen by J. C. Cady who has been here for the past three weeks looking over the 200 acres of this flax that has been grown experimentally here this year. In view of conditions under which the flax was grown this year several of the fields have shown up exceptionally well, Mr. Cady said.

It will be advisable to thresh several fields for seed, according to Mr. Cady, since some of the flax became overripe before it was cut or contained too much weeds.

"Farmers whose fields warranted cutting for manufacturing purposes will receive $30 a ton for their crop and it is practically assured that this amount will also be paid next year. One requirement for fibre flax is that the land be clean and Mr. Cady says that the normal yield should be two tons to the acre."

vance Over New York in Yesterday's Play

New York, Sept. 20.—Washington again took a one game lead over New York in the American league yesterday by winning from the Yankees 10 to 6. The Senators easily defeated the Yankees, increasing their advantage to one and one-half games over the Yankees, which lost to Pittsburgh. The Pirates are now one game ahead of the Robins and two and one-half behind New York. The Senators smothered six new pitchers for a 15 to 9 victory. The Yankees led the Tigers 3 to 1, until the ninth when Jones batted from the box. Dugan's throw led to the winning run, 6 to 5 count in the ninth. The Giants easily defeated the Reds, 10 to 4. Yde held the Robins safe while the Pirates batted hard from the box, for a 4 to 1 decision.

When the car driven by Jimmy Murphy, 1922 International racing champion and most consistent race winner of the present generation of drivers, dived through a fence in a 150-mile race at Syracuse, N. Y., traveling only 50 miles an hour, he was so badly injured that he died a few moments later. Murphy had driven as rapidly as 154 miles an hour in safety. He also was an aviator.

Best natives Friday cashed at $12.25 with untrimmed sorts at $11.25. Light and handweight ewes on packer account earned $5.50 to $6.00 while breeder buyers paid upwards to $7.50 for desirable young ewes for breeding purposes.

WHEAT FALLS AT CLOSING

Sharp Declines Set in on Chicago Market

Chicago, Sept. 20.—(By the A. P.)—Sharp declines took place in wheat today during the last hour. Buyers had apparently become filled up and prospects of an enlargement of the U. S. visible supply today on Monday were weakening favor. The close was heavy, 2 to 2 3/8 cents net lower, December $1.31 5/8 to 3/4 and May $1.37 3/8 to 3/4. Subsequently scattered liquidating sales proved to be burdensome and the market receded suddenly at the last.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Persistent rain in Canada delaying the crop movement and damaging the quality of grain led to firmness in wheat today after a downward tendency at the opening. Opening quotations, which varied 3/4 cents decline to 1 1/4 cents advance, with Dec. $1.33 1/4 to 3/4 cents and May $1.39 to 1/8 were followed by slight general gains.

FAMOUS PACER IMPROVES WITH PASSING YEARS

Cambridge City, Ind., Sept. 20.—"Single G," 14-year-old veteran of the harness racing circuits, is improving with age, despite the general belief that a horse's best days are past when it reaches its tenth year. This remarkable animal, which eleven years ago made her maiden start over a mile course at Peoria, Illinois, and finished third in a race on the same day in which the general record was shattered by "William" in another race, still is the talk of the harness racing fraternity. "William" in making his debut, established a record of 2:05. He and all other racing mates of "Single G" that day have gone, but the great pacer is more active than ever. "Single G" established a record of 1:58 1/2 in negotiating the mile in her tenth year of racing last season, and today, in her eleventh year in harness, she promises to do as well or better, according to followers of the circuit races.

According to racing authorities "Single G" has surpassed the record of all harness race horses of the two minute class or better, and they declare her now to be one of the greatest pacers in harness.

"Little Gyp," mare of no recognized breeding, was the dam of "Single G," while "Anderson Wilkes," rated as a good horse in his day and a leading son of "Onward," was her sire. Ed Allen, veteran driver, who has been the trainer of "Single G," is always in the seat when she steps around the circuit. She is the property of W. B. Barefoot of Cambridge City, Indiana.

With ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA

by W. Robert Foran
© 1924 NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombasa, the "Gateway of British East Africa," and then make the railroad journey to their first camp on the game-crowded Kapiti Plains. With Colonel Roosevelt are his son, Kermit, and three scientific members of his staff—Major Edgar A. Mearns, Edmund Heller and J. Allen Boring.

Now the expedition camps at Saigai-Sai, a farm belonging to Commander Frederick Attenborough, after a wonderfully successful shooting trip in the Sotik country. Now, going in a launch across the lake toward the mouth of the Mopendi River, they catch sight of a large hippo walking along the shore. Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit and Cunningham leave the launch and row toward the animal.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY
Dawson, the Attenboroughs and myself sat in the launch, which had come to a halt, and watched the hunt eagerly, at the same time keeping a sharp lookout for the hippo so as to warn the hunters of its whereabouts.

The row-boat had not proceeded far into the bay when, less than a hundred yards away in the papyrus reeds, suddenly came into view the huge head of a hippopotamus, and very ugly. Calmly it watched the approach of the invaders of its privacy, until it seemed to realize suddenly that danger threatened it.

"CAMP ROOSEVELT" ON LAKE NARVASKA.

At this moment, it dashed away from the rapidly rowing launch, made its way along the papyrus edge, while its wet back glistened in the strong sunlight. Roosevelt was standing up in the boat, with his rifle held to his shoulder and ready for any emergency.

There was a sharp report from the row-boat, and one of Colonel Roosevelt's bullets struck in a vital spot. The hippo turned immediately and charged, with its huge mouth wide open, straight at the frail row-boat. We could plainly see the ivory tusks and teeth within that deep cavern of a mouth. Obviously, it intended mischief.

Another sharp report came to us across the water, and the hippo almost lost the bullet enter that colossal mouth. As the bullet hit, the immense jaws closed with a vicious snap. It still held on its charge for the row-boat, but Colonel Roosevelt fired a third time and dropped the hippo dead with a bullet through its brain.

While this was going on, we could see Kermit taking photographs of the charge and kill with his camera. He appeared to be quite unperturbed. Later on he said to me, when speaking about his experiences with this hippo, "If only saw the boat through my view-finder and never once with my naked eye until it was dead!"

Then began the difficult task of dragging the huge carcass out of the weeds into clear water, so that the launch could take it in tow for the camp. However, after strenuous efforts by Cunningham, who stood waist-deep in the water, ourselves in the launch, and the native porters in the row-boat, we succeeded finally, after several hours' hard work, in bringing our object. Thereupon, we headed across the lake for the camp, proudly towing the huge beast—must have weighed fully three tons or more—behind us.

Roosevelt and Kermit were delighted with their success on this hunt, and we were naturally overjoyed at being witnesses to such an interesting adventure. It certainly had been a memorable occasion, and we were all tired after the long day on the water.

We reached the pier below the Attenborough's house at sunset. While the others returned to the camp, I helped the Attenborough brothers and Cunningham tow the dead hippo round into the little bay in front of the Roosevelt camp, so that it would be ready for dragging ashore early next morning for Heller and his skinner to start work on the carcass.

"It's been a bully day's hunting," called Roosevelt to me, gleefully, as he started off to walk round to his camp. And his face wreathed in smiles.

CHAPTER X
"Roosevelt Luck" on Lake Narvaska.
Many interesting incidents occurred during the stay at Saigai-Sai, and certainly the memories of these adventures days in that camp must ever remain pleasant ones for all of the members of the expedition.

Heller will remember the huge leopard, weighing some 26 pounds, which he discovered one morning in one of his rat-traps, attached, for greater security, to a thorn-bush for a free drag.

On another morning, Colonel Roosevelt, Cunningham and the brothers Attenborough went out in the launch in search of a good male hippo for their group. When they neared the proposed hunting ground,

Colonel Roosevelt decided to embark in the frail row-boat, accompanied only by two native porters to row him, and try for a hippo unaided. The launch was to stand by, ready to come to his aid and later to carry him back to camp.

He had rowed across the lake for a couple of miles, when he suddenly found himself amongst a school of fifteen or more hippopotami. They immediately surrounded his boat and charged it repeatedly, bumping the bottom of it with their broad backs as they dived beneath it. The two natives were terrified and dropped their oars. There was ample cause for their terror, for it is no light thing to be attacked by even one single hippo when only in a frail row-boat—let alone some fifteen or twenty.

Colonel Roosevelt, however, was in his element and was undismayed. He calmly selected the biggest bull from amongst the school, and killed it with a beautiful shot through the head. He next picked out another exceptionally fine specimen, which later turned out to be a big cow, and also killed it with his first shot. As he only wanted these two specimens for the completion of the groups for the museum, he thereafter contented himself with merely protecting himself against the remainder of the hippo.

When, finally, they had disappeared, he sat down in the boat and waited patiently for his two victims to rise to the surface. It takes from two to three hours for a dead hippo

EQUALITY FOR AGRICULTURE BIG PROBLEM

To Be Slogan For Federal Reserve Bank of Ninth District, Says New Agent

DISCUSSES PROPOSAL

Minneapolis, Sept. 20.—A plan "that will bring about an equality for agriculture with labor and industry" is a paramount need of Northwestern agriculture, John R. Mitchell, new Federal Reserve Agent for the Ninth district, succeeding J. H. Rich, deceased, declared at a luncheon given here by the Minneapolis Tribune for the retail business men of Minneapolis.

He said in part:

"The results from this year's operations in agriculture unquestionably justify great rejoicing, and new life and encouragement have been injected into the producer.

"The cause of the increased yields in small grains in this country is climatic, and the cause of increased prices is due to a world shortage, the result of climatic conditions elsewhere. It is not worth while to give thought to what will happen to small grain prices in this country when the other grain producing countries have a normal crop?

"Since the world market price for wheat controls our domestic price so long as a surplus is produced in this country, and in all probability a surplus will be produced for many years to come, I venture to ask the question: Is it not possible to provide some means by which the disposition of the surplus production will not establish the price for the entire crop?

Our Standards

"I think we all are in agreement on the fact that we cannot produce wheat in this country at a profit in competition with other wheat producing sections of the world under normal conditions and maintain an American standard of living on the farm.

"To my mind, a solution of this one difficulty is of the most vital importance to agriculture today, and fundamentally the problem can be summed up to the one of obtaining an American price in America for our farm products.

"I do not believe the farmer can solve this problem unaided. That he needs and should have the assistance of the government is self-evident."

GROWS TREES AROUND HOME
McKenzie County Woman Makes Attractive Grove

Watford City, N. D., Sept. 20.—That northwestern North Dakota will successfully grow several varieties of fruit trees has been amply demonstrated by Mrs. Andrew Noble of near Dore in McKenzie county, visitors at the Noble farm declare.
Mrs. Noble's early home was in Oregon. She learned to love trees and after a few years in North Dakota, became hungry for them. She established a nursery to determine just what might be done in the tree raising line in this section. The results have been noteworthy, according to observers.
Around the Noble home one will find elms, cottonwoods, poplars, box-elder, soft maple, catalpa, weeping locust, weeping willow, weeping birch, black walnut, blue alder, jack pine, Red Land cedar, ash, chokecherry, caragana, lilacs, wild plums, tame plum, compass cherries, crabapple, apple trees, wild grape, tamar grape, silver maple, and a great variety of shrubs and flowers.

The crabapples have borne three years, and this year three trees produced four bushels of fine fruit. The apple trees are bearing for the first time this fall, and the apples are fine, large specimens.
Several trees of both wild and tame plums and cherries are so loaded with fruit that it has been found necessary to prop the limbs to prevent breaking.

FOUR SHOWS COMING HERE

Few, But Good, Ones Rule in Booking

Few, but good, shows for the Bismarck City Auditorium is the present lineup, according to bookings on hand by E. H. L. Vesperman, manager. The first show to come to the Auditorium is "Little Jessie James," a musical comedy which ran for a long time in New York and Chicago. The show, an elaborate one, is being taken to the Pacific Coast to stay in the larger coast cities. The show comes here September 25. When "Little Jessie James" plays here the curtain will rise at 7:45 P. M., as the show will go west on the night train.
The next booked is "Merton of the Movies," on October 27. Glenn Hunter, who created the role in this comedy, is with the show. It was declared the best in New York by many critics when running there. Mito Hujos, the perennial musical comedy favorite, is booked to appear here on November 24, and Miss Geraldine Farrar, the former prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, is booked for December 1. She is touring with her own company in "Carmen" and stops here because she is making a coast-to-coast jump.

UNIVERSITY SOON BEGINS

Enrollment Will Be Held Saturday, Monday and Tuesday

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 20.—University of North Dakota officials and instructors were prepared for the opening of registration at 9 a. m. Saturday and had issued a last call for new students, who intended to enroll, to send in their credentials as soon as possible in order to avoid the delay and possible embarrassment, ensuing from leaving the matter of entrance requirements until arrival at the university. Although registration will continue through Monday and Tuesday those in Grand Forks or at the university were requested to register today.

General arrangements for registration are the same as last year, according to Ernest G. Miller, registrar at the university. Enrollment in the College of Liberal Arts, the School of Education and the School of Commerce will take place in the Women's gymnasium as usual. Those who have completed the required number of hours work in the College of Liberal Arts and intend to join the Law School may register Saturday, according to Dean O. P. Cockerill, who states that he will be in his office in the Law building during Saturday morning. Dr. H. E. French, dean of the School of Medicine will also hold registration in Science hall beginning Saturday morning.

Dr. W. G. Bek, freshman dean, will have charge of the registration of all freshmen except those who will enroll in the College of Engineering. The engineers will register in the School of Mines building where Dean Earle J. Bahrcock has his office.

With the addition of Dean E. T. Towne, who will register juniors and seniors in the School of Commerce, there will be six deans meeting students when the university opens this fall. There are now six distinct schools or colleges at the state school.

Those enrolling in the university for the first time should have a certificate of the high school credits sent directly from the principal of the institution which they attended. These credentials should be sent to Ernest C. Miller, registrar, according to officials of the university.

DIES WHILE AT SO. DAK. FAIR

Sid McLaughlin, Son of Major McLaughlin, Dies

Mandan, N. D., Sept. 20.—Sid McLaughlin of McLaughlin, S. D., son of Major and Mrs. McLaughlin, the former for years in the U. S. Indian bureau who died a year ago and whose wife died this summer, dropped dead Wednesday at the annual McLaughlin fair.
Sid McLaughlin, who was about 45 years of age, was sitting on his horse watching the bulldogging events at the wild west program in connection with the McLaughlin fair when he was suddenly stricken with heart failure and pitched off his horse to the ground. Death came instantly. His sudden death put a damper on the fan of spectators and participants in the McLaughlin rodeo for Sid McLaughlin was one of the best known men of the reservation country and has always played a prominent part in affairs there.
He is survived by his wife and several children and by one brother, the former sheriff of Sioux County.

News of the sudden death was brought to Mandan by Sheriff Charles McDonald who with a deputy and two Morton county farmers had been in the reservation country running down clues to cattle rustlers. Sheriff McDonaid declared the exhibits at the McLaughlin fair to be unusually fine and very plentiful, and a fine program featured daily.

More than 1,000,000 tons of peat are produced annually in the Netherlands.

McKenzie County Woman Makes Attractive Grove

Watford City, N. D., Sept. 20.—The northernmost North Dakota woman who successfully grows several varieties of fruit trees has been amply demonstrated by Mrs. Andrew Nohle of near Dore in McKenzie County, visitors at the Nohle farm declare.

Mrs. Nohle's early home was in Oregon. She learned to love trees and after a few years in North Dakota, became hungry for them. She established a nursery to determine just what might be done in the tree raising line in this section. The results have been noteworthy, according to observers.

Around the Nohle home one will find elms, cottonwoods, poplars, box-elder, soft maple, catalpa, honey locust, weeping willow, weeping birch, black walnut, blue spruce, jack pine, Bad Land cedar, ash, chokecherry, caragana, lilacs,

FOUR SHOWS COMING HERE
Few, But Good, Ones Rule in Booking

Few, but good, shows for the Bismarck City Auditorium is the present lineup, according to bookings on hand by E. H. L. Vesperman, manager. The first show to come to the Auditorium is "Little Jessie James," a musical comedy which ran for a long time in New York and Chicago. The show, an elaborate one, is being taken to the Pacific Coast for a stay in the larger coast cities. The show comes here September 25. When "Little Jessie James" plays here the curtain will rise at 7:45 P. M., as the show will go west on the night train.

The next booked is "Merton of the Movies," on October 27. Glenn Hunter, who created the role in this comedy, is with the show. It was declared the best in New York by many critics when running there. Miff Hagen, the perennial musical comedy favorite, is booked to appear here on November 24, and Miss Geraldine Farrar, the former prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is booked for December 1. She is touring with her own company in "Carmen" and stops here because she is making a coast-to-coast jump.

UNIVERSITY SOON BEGINS
Enrollment Will Be Held Saturday, Monday and Tuesday

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 20.—University of North Dakota officials and instructors were preparing for the opening of registration at 9 a. m. Saturday and had issued a last call for new students, who intend to enroll, to send in their credentials as soon as possible in order to avoid the delay and possible embarrassment ensuing from leaving the matter of entrance requirements until arrival at the university. Although registration will continue through Monday and Tuesday those in Grand Forks or at the university were requested to register today.

General arrangements for registration are the same as last year, according to Ernest G. Miller, registrar at the university. Enrollment in the College of Liberal Arts, the School of Education and the School of Commerce will take place in the Women's gymnasium as usual. Those who have completed the required number of hours work in the College of Liberal Arts and intend to join the School of Education will take place in the School of Commerce building where Dean Earle J. Babcock has his office.

With the addition of Dean E. T. Towne, who will register juniors and seniors in the School of Commerce, there will be six deans meeting students when the university opens this fall. There are now six distinct schools or colleges at the state school.

Those enrolling in the university for the first time should have a certificate of the high school credits sent directly from the principal of the institution which they attended. These credentials should be sent to Ernest C. Miller, registrar, according to officials of the university.

LOCAL PEOPLE HEAR TALKS ON EUROPE TRAVEL

Franzo Crawford, Rhodes Scholar, and Miss Bertha Palmer, Give Talks

MANY PLACES ATTRACT

In an entertaining account, which he called "Gastronomic Rambles with Garrett," Franzo Crawford related some of the experience he and a fellow Oxford student had while traveling through Europe during one of their summer vacations, to a large crowd at the Presbyterian church last night. Miss Bertha Palmer being the other speaker.

He spoke of the Passion Play which they witnessed at Oberammergau, Germany, in which the entire population of the village about four or five hundred, took part, and which lasted about eight hours. The variety introduced, and the remarkable ability of the actors prevented the spectacle from becoming monotonous, Mr. Crawford said.

Budapest he had liked very much, and the Hungarian goulash was no small part of the reason for his affection for that city, he said. In Athens and in Syria the two students were forced to employ great ingenuity to buy eggs which did not rattle, in fact, in Syria, the eggs were all kept in incubators, those which did not look promising being taken out at the end of six days and sold at the markets.

The white marble ruins of the Acropolis by moonlight left a picture which returns to him more clearly than any other thing he saw while abroad, Mr. Crawford said.

Scotland Beautiful

Miss Palmer, speaking from the tourists viewpoint, gave a vivid picture of England and Scotland, which she said did not contain an inch of unbeautiful land. She spoke of the places of historical interest she visited, John Bunyans home, the Tam O'Shanter Inn, Warwick castle, and places made immortal by Scott. Warwick castle she said, had been rented for 99 years by an American, who, except for the suite reserved by Lady Warwick and her family had thrown open the castle to tourists for 50 cents each. So many came to visit the place she believed that the debts which encumbered the place would be rapidly paid off.

Rome's modernness had disappointed her until she had been able to visit the Forum, and the Coliseum. Mrs. F. H. Bavendick sang "Violet," by Roma, and Miss Odina Olson sang "Sylvia," by Sinding, and "Dawn," by Curran, both singers being very well received. Miss Marion Lesher, who played the accompaniment for both, also played the postlude, "Fanfare," by Dubois.

Rev. H. C. Postlethwaite introduced the speakers. The program was sponsored by the second division of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid.

GRANT IS GIVEN STAY

Small of Illinois Holds off Execution

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—Governor Len Small today granted a 90-day reprieve to Bernard Grant, Chicago youth, awaiting the death penalty. The reprieve is dated to January 16.

Appeals for executive clemency had been made for Bernard Grant, 19, on the ground that the decision of Judge Caverly in the Loeb, Leopold case should cause a commutation which would save Grant from hanging. Grant and Walter Krauser were sentenced to death for killing Policeman Ralph Souders.

GEORGE F. BAKER IN VARIOUS MOODS.

THE WORLD'S RICHEST MEN

Here, according to conservative financial authority, are the world's richest individuals. You may be surprised to find that you have never heard of some of them.

United States: Henry Ford, $550,000,000; John D. Rockefeller, $550,000,000; T. B. Walker, Minnesota, $200,000,000; George Fisher Baker, $300,000,000 and J. B. Duke, $100,000,000.

Abroad: Sir Basil Zaharoff, a Greek, owner of Monte Carlo and the mystery man of the money world, $300,000,000, or thereabouts; Barons Mitzui and K. Iwasaki of Japan, $100,000,000 each; Duke of Westminster, $80,000,000; The Gackevor of Baroda $100,000,000.

Until his death Hugo Stinnes, Germany, was well up in the list. These, it should be noted, are personal and not family fortunes, such as the House of Morgan, the Vanderbilts and scores of others.

New York, Sept. 20.—Nine A. M. each day—with the exception of vacation periods—there climbs spryly up the steps of the First National Bank Building at No. 2 Wall Street a ruddy faced man of 85. Wrinkles have so formed beneath his eyes as to give the impression of a steady twinkle.

He generally wears a loosely tied knot tie of dark blue of black material which appears to have been tied hurriedly or by one who never has mastered the art of the bow knot. He swings a cane but uses it only infrequently as an aid in walking. His greetings are for the most part smilingly curt.

Going to his office he personally looks over the mail set aside by his secretary. He has no idea of retiring.

He is George Fisher Baker, the "Sphinx of Wall Street," one of America's five richest men, and yet practically unknown to the public at large. His fortune is placed at about $300,000,000.

Less is known about him than probably any other money king of America. Not even in the heart of America's financial center is his early life story known.

Extremely abrupt of speech, his public utterances have been merely axiomatic references to integrity in business life.

"Whatever distinction I may have is due to my business experience," is his modest way of answering questions about his success.

But some idea of how he did it may be gained from the following chart of his habits:

Unequaled Results With Unexampld Economy

The Brougham

Every one who drives the Chrysler Six is moved to wonder at the ease with which it rides and drives under all conditions. Unusually low center of gravity and scientific weight distribution enable it to hold the road with the tenacity of a two-ton car; a new practice in spring suspension eliminates side-sway, even when making a turn at 50 miles an hour. Chrysler-Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes contribute vastly to these driving and riding qualities and add an extra degree of safety. Special design six-ply, high-speed balloon tires are standard.

It is true that the Chrysler Six performs in a manner that has centered the attention of America on this car. Yet the wonder of its accomplishments becomes all the more wonderful by reason of the economy with which these results are obtained.

You get better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—in itself an achievement for a car that can travel over 70 miles an hour. But this is not the whole economy story.

The oil-filter automatically cleanses all the oil in the crankcase every 25 miles; the air-cleaner prevents the entry of dust and dirt through the carburetor; the crankshaft revolves in seven bearings instead of three or five, thus preventing destructive engine vibration.

These are some of the contributing factors to motoring results that are revolutionary—not only in themselves, but in the lower costs at which they are obtained.

You cannot grasp their full importance until you drive the Chrysler Six yourself.

morning, unless enjoying a holiday. For 60 years he celebrated his birthday by working.

Until he reached the age of 70 he took little or no time for outdoor games.

It was after his 70th birthday that he began to "dissipate" and took up a golf stick and began to use tobacco. Now he is an ardent golf fan but plays not for health so much as for competitive sport.

He plays a 12-hole game without particular effort, thus going John D. Rockefeller several better. He is lavish with public gifts, having distributed some $12,000,000 in six years.

He has given $2,000,000 for the foundation of a Graduate School of Business Administration at Cornell. His own business ethics he sums up with unusual brevity: "It has been my ambition in life to conduct it so that I might gain the esteem of my fellows."

And he has said no more publicly on the subject.

The "Wall Street Sphinx" started life as a $2 a week grocery boy at Troy, N. Y. He later became a night watchman in a Troy Bank at $5 and then became a bank examiner.

Suddenly he appeared in New York as one of the organizers of the first bank under the National Bank act in 1863.

Today he is director of many railroads, and official in numerous banks and security houses.

But about him always is a veil of impenetrable silence.

NEW OAKLANDS ARE RECEIVED

Stair & Pederson have on display four models of the 1925 Oakland just recently received. The models include Landau Sedan, Standard Sedan, Sport touring and Standard touring. The new Oaklands are equipped with four wheel brakes and are all finished in the new Duco finish. This Duco finish is attracting international attention as the manufacturers claim it is not affected by weather, acids, or oils, and the longer it is on the cars the more beautiful the finish becomes.

MANY VIEW NEW BUICKS

Between four and five hundred people visited the Fleck Motor Sales Companies showrooms yesterday to view the 1925 Buick line. To give an opportunity to those for whom it has not been convenient to come in during the day Mr. Fleck announces that the Buick showrooms will be open this evening, at which time a direct representative of the Buick Company will be on hand to explain in detail or to answer questions regarding mechanical features, construction, policy, etc. Those who have seen the new cars say that it is one of the best automobile displays that Bismarck has ever seen. Mr. Fleck expressed great satisfaction with the interest shown to date.

Buy Chrysler After Unique Demonstration

Here's a new wrinkle in demonstration. The West Virginia State Police bought a Chrysler Six following one of the oddest on record. G. M. Davis, manager of the Tri-Motor Sales Co., Maxwell-Chrysler dealers in Clarksburg, W. Va., the home town of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, was in a hurry to reach Fairmont, 25 miles away. He was in such a hurry that his Chrysler did it at night in the rain over slippery roads in 30 minutes.

While running along at 50 miles an hour he noticed a state trooper behind him. "I supposed he was chasing me," he said later, "as there was no one else I could see who needed to be chased for speeding. But I stepped on it."

"Some time after I reached Fairmont the trooper rode in. He said he had never to catch me for 15 miles and supposed I must have been at least seven miles ahead of him when I reached Fairmont. The damage was $56.60, but the trooper was so thoroughly sold by my inadvertent demonstration that the state bought one a few days later. I call it the best arrest for speeding that I have ever received." The Chrysler is now being used to accomplish what the trooper's motorcycle could not do—to catch speeders.

The Lanchester Balancer gives Willys-Knight a vibrationless smoothness unique in a motor car.

Willys-Knight Scores Again

Men and women who drive cars rightly demand the most of them. They render a verdict of enthusiasm for the Willys-Knight. The test of every-day driving proves to them the completeness with which its latest refinement, the Lanchester Balancer, prevents vibration at all engine speeds.

Car owners, who object to vibration in open cars, find it amounts to a continually renewed irritation in closed cars. With closed cars coming more widely into use each year, demand for the elimination of engine vibration has grown imperative.

Willys-Knight supplies this demand—the Lanchester Balancer conquers vibration. The Balancer makes a better engine of the world's best engine—the famous sleeve-valve motor that improves with use. It registers another achievement for Willys-Knight,—the car that literally outruns its field.

The Willys-Knight with Lanchester Balancer is on view now. Inspect it. Try it out. Then render your verdict.
